McNARY-HAUGEN BILL IS UP FOR AMENDMENT

EQUALIZATION FEE ISSUE IS TO BE DISCUSSED

MEASURE IS THROWN DIRECTLY UP TO THE HOUSE TODAY

SUBSTITUTE BY REP. ASWELL STRIKING OUT FEE IS RULED IN ORDER

Washington, May 2.—Showing unexpected strength, house opponents of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill today voted the equalization fee, the heart of the measure, out of the bill.

There were 261 members voting out of the 433 and Haugen bill supporters claimed the equalization fee would be re-inserted on a record vote later when the measure's advocates are rounded up.

The vote, 141 to 120, was taken in committee of the whole, and a roll call will be forced on this issue later.

The house adopted the Aswell substitute which follows the Haugen bill except that it estimates the equalization fee, to which President Coolidge has objected. The vote came as a complete surprise and was followed by applause and cheering by administration supporters.

Washington, May 2.—(UP)—The equalization fee issue of the McNary-Haugen bill was thrown directly up to the house today at the outset of consideration of the measure for amendment. A substitute by Rep. Aswell, democrat, Louisiana, striking out the equalization fee, was ruled in order by Rep. Mages, republican, Michigan, who was in the chair, thus affording a temporary victory for opponents of the bill.

It is the equalization fee to which President Coolidge objects so strenuously.

The house then began a debate on the Aswell substitute on which a vote will be taken later which will afford a test of house sentiment.

Other opponents of the bill took advantage of Aswell's victory and began a series of parliamentary maneuvers to confuse the situation. Rep. Fort, republican, N. J., offered an amendment to Aswell's substitute so as to strike out another section of the bill relating to marketing agreement among co-operators.

Washington, May 2.—The house today took up the Haugen farm relief bill for amendment, dispensing with further debate on the measure itself.

Farm relief advocates succeeded in displacing the calendar business slated for today. As a result of this action, and shutting off of further debate, a final vote appears probable tomorrow.

POLICE OF MILL CITY ASKED TO SEARCH FOR FOUR MISSING PEOPLE

Minneapolis, May 2.—(UP)—Police here have been asked to search for four missing persons ranging from four to 81 years of age who disappeared Tuesday.

No reason for the disappearance of any of the persons was given in police reports.

The missing are: Charles Chott, 81; Axel Gunnerson, 4; Edward Baucher, 15; and his brother, Levon, 16.

POSTAL RATES BILL PASSED BY SENATE

Washington, May 2.—(UP)—The postal rates bill, amended to effect a reduction estimated at $38,550,000 a year, was passed today by the senate.

As passed by the house, it provided for a reduction estimated at $13,585,000 a year but the senate post office committee added $24,965,000. The bill now goes to conference.

$20,000 FIRE AT MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, May 2.—(UP)—Fire which destroyed the Apex Wax Products Co., building here late Tuesday resulted in the injury of one person and damage estimated at $20,000.

Fire was believed to have been started by explosion of chemicals in the building.

WORST CYCLONE IN YEARS SWEEPS NEW ZEALAND

Wellington, N. Z., May 2.—(UP)—The worst cyclone in 30 years has swept the Dominion, causing considerable damage to shipping. Several small vessels anchored near Wellington were sunk. Dozens of yachts, launches and other small vessels broke their moorings near Auckland and grounded.

COL. LINDBERGH TO EXPLORE FAR NORTHERN ROUTE

AVIATOR IS OPPOSED TO CROSS-WATER FLIGHTS OVER LONG DISTANCES

UNLESS SUCH VOYAGES ADD SOMETHING TO SCIENCE OF AVIATION

By MAURITZ A. HALLGREN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, May 2.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's consideration of the far northern route for his contemplated flight to Europe is based upon his desire to explore the possibilities of that route from a scientific viewpoint, the United Press was informed today by friends of the aviator here.

Lindbergh himself declared he was opposed to cross-water flights over long distances unless such flights added something to the science of aviation. From other sources it was learned that the Lindbergh-Ford flight was being planned to test the availability of the "top of the world" course—via Greenland and Iceland—as a regular route for planes and dirigibles plying between America and Europe.

Meanwhile Lindbergh, Major Thos. G. Lanphier, who will probably accompany him on his European trip, and Captain Emory Land of the bureau of naval aeronautics, a cousin of Lindbergh, went over plans for the flight at Land's home here.

The three studied geographical and meteorological charts covering the entire North Atlantic area as well as other information concerning flying conditions in Labrador, Greenland and Iceland, which has been gathered for Lindbergh and the Ford Company by the Danish government and other agencies. They were understood to have worked out many of the details of the projected flight during these conferences.

Fuel and other supplies probably will not be sent into the frozen north until the minutest details as to the final route and itinerary have been worked out. When this has been done, it was said, a formal announcement of the flight may be expected. According to information available here, the formal announcement will be made at the Ford offices in Detroit.

Lindbergh, ever cool and mechanical in his calculations, so far has refused to commit himself publicly to the Greenland route, although he did admit to the United Press that "I am very much interested in the feasibility of flying by way of Greenland to Europe, but so far as the flight is concerned, I do not know yet whether it is feasible or not."

It has long been contended in aeronautical circles that the safest and shortest air route to Europe is by way of Labrador and Greenland. Aviators supporting this view believe that adequate and permanent supply bases can be established along this route. Other authorities have taken the position that the most practicable route would be south of the line flown by Lindbergh, Byrd and Chamberlin last year, and touching the Azores on the way.

Lindbergh is believed to be supporting the former view and with this in mind practically has decided upon flying the north Atlantic route. Experts connected with the Ford Company are said to be of the same mind and therefore are backing Lindbergh in his new venture.

MAN OF 60 IS KILLED BY CAR

Minneapolis, Minn., May 2.—(UP)—Charles Pasky, 60, was killed here late Tuesday when struck by an automobile driven by Edwin Olson. Police held Olson for investigation.

Egypt's Reply to British Ultimatum On Withdrawing Public Assemblies Received

BREMEN'S VALIANT CREW HONORED IN WASHINGTON

PRES. COOLIDGE AT NOON RECEIVES THEM AT WHITE HOUSE

PRESENTS THEM WITH DISTINGUISHED FLYING CROSSES

By LYLE C. WILSON

Washington, May 2.—America's honors to the brave were bestowed today officially upon the Bremen's valiant crew.

President Coolidge at noon received them in the White House and presented to them distinguished flying crosses—decorations of merit given foreigners today for the first time.

Received here today by high dignitaries of this government and envoys of other nations, Baron Von Huenfeld, Capt. Hermann Koehl and Major Fitzmaurice, the Bremen crew dashed through a morning of colorful reception which came to a climax at noon at the White House. There, President Coolidge, greeting them happily, granted them this signal honor which hitherto had been given only a few of America's own brave fliers.

The fliers had arrived by train early today, much to the disappointment of their flying comrades at Bolling Field. After going to the Mayflower, they proceeded to Bolling Field, where the German ambassador, the Irish minister, Secretary of State Kellogg and others, including Col. Lindbergh, welcomed them. Secretary of State Kellogg spoke briefly a greeting and a recognition of their valor; and said their exploit had served anew to shorten the distances between the nations.

From the field, they returned under cavalry escort to their hotel for a press conference, in which they announced their plans for a westward flight, visiting Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Ottawa and Philadelphia before—as they now plan—flying back to Europe.

Then at noon came the supreme moment of their day. They were escorted to the president's business offices in the White House and introduced to the chief executive by Col. Latrobe, his military aide. Thousands crowded in the vicinity of the White House to glimpse the men who had flown the Bremen from Ireland to lonely Greenly Island.

Cheers and handclapping greeted them anew. From the business offices, the party adjourned to the south lawn of the vast White House grounds, and there the president presented the crosses which had been hurried here from Philadelphia by plane.

From the White House, the fliers, again besieged by well-wishers who sought to shake their hands, proceeded to the National Press Club for a brief reception and then returned to the White House for luncheon as the president's guests.

It was a small party that gathered at the president's table, German ambassador Von Prittwitz and Irish Minister Smiddy, with Secretary of State Kellogg, Col. Latrobe, Capt. Wilson Brown, naval aide, and Private Secretary Sanders formed the group.

From the White House, the fliers' itinerary led them this afternoon to Arlington to lay upon the grave of the unknown soldier wreaths of spring flowers. Tonight they will attend official dinners and then return tomorrow morning to New York City.

Koehl and Fitzmaurice told the United Press that the Junkers monoplane P-13 probably would arrive here today from New York to take the fliers away tomorrow. The fliers placed wreaths on the tomb of the unknown soldier shortly before 2:30 P. M. The three airmen appeared from the amphitheatre flanked by Ambassador Von Prittwitz and Minister Smiddy. Behind them rode two American soldiers, each carrying a large wreath. The green of the entwined leaves formed a background on one wreath for the black, red and gold colors of Germany and on the other wreath were the yellow, white and green colors of the Irish Free State.

ONLY POLAND HAD BLOODSHED ON MAY DAY

By United Press

Although millions of people engaged in May Day demonstrations throughout the world Monday, only Poland reported bloodshed and strife.

In Warsaw three persons were killed, one wounded and many arrested in a communist uprising. Elsewhere quiet reigned. In Moscow the day was almost as a holiday with a great military pageant attracting thousands to the Red square.

Paris has feared a communist demonstration because of the communist defeats in the recent chamber of deputies elections. Although many communist meetings occurred there were no incidents to mar the day. Hundreds paraded in Vienna demanding the release of Bela Kuhn, former communist dictator of Hungary, but they were orderly.

In Mexico and throughout South America there were demonstrations but they were all carried out in orderly fashion. Tokio reported many arrests.

GOV. AL SMITH WINS IN PRIMARY AT CALIFORNIA

OVERWHELMING MARGIN OVER SENATORS WALSH AND REED

VICTORY ASSUMES PROPORTIONS OF VERITABLE LANDSLIDE

By GERALD P. OVERTON

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

San Francisco, May 2.—Tabulation of the late returns in California's presidential primary today served only to increase the overwhelming margin of Governor Al Smith's victory over Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana and Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, his two opponents on the democratic preferential ballot.

Smith's victories, conceded by political observers of all forces, today assumed the proportions of a landslide.

California republicans gave a solid demonstration of approval of Herbert Hoover for the republican presidential nomination by registering a heavy vote for him, despite the fact that his name was the only republican candidate entered on the preferential ballot.

Complete reports from precincts out of 8,753 in the state gave the following results: Democratic: Smith, 115,121; Reed, 46,314; Walsh, 36,498. Republican: Hoover, 450,827.

JURY ACCEPTS EXPLANATION THAT MIND 'WENT BLANK'

THROUGH KEYHOLE ST. LOUIS MAN SAW WIFE KISSING STAR BOARDER

St. Louis, Mo., May 1.—(UP)—A circuit court jury here accepted Hugh C. Daugherty's explanation that his mind "went blank."

Daugherty, a 35-year-old stationery engineer, had testified that through a key-hole he saw his wife, Lillian, 33, in the arms of John Rokoosky, a star boarder, who, he asserted, was kissing Mrs. Daugherty.

"I got my revolver," he testified, "and told my wife she could not go to the theater with Rokoosky. She told me to get out of the house. Then she rushed at me, and my mind went blank."

Daugherty admitted he had obtained the gun "to have it out with Rokoosky." It exploded accidentally when his wife rushed him, he said. Rokoosky, however, denied alienating the affections of Mrs. Daugherty.

NO OFFICIAL COMMENT FOR SEVERAL DAYS

LORD LLOYD, BRITISH HIGH COMMISSIONER IN EGYPT, TO BE NOTIFIED

REPORTED 2 EGYPTIAN MINISTERS RESIGN BECAUSE OF CRISIS

London, May 2.—(UP)—Egypt's reply to the British ultimatum regarding withdrawal of the public assemblies bill was received today by Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary.

The cabinet is expected to discuss the reply forthwith but there will be no official comment for several days. The government's attitude toward the reply, it was understood, may not be revealed until Lord Lloyd, British high commissioner in Egypt, first is notified of the attitude.

The Egyptian reply, it was understood, mentioned the fact that the Egyptian government had postponed action on the public assemblies bill and expressed the hope that Anglo-Egyptian relations soon would be improved.

"We hope the present difficulties may shortly be dispelled," the reply was understood to have said.

Sir Austin Chamberlain, foreign secretary, announced the dispatch of the second note to Cairo in the house of commons after Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister, had questioned him concerning the Egyptian situation.

The foreign secretary confirmed receipt of Egypt's reply to the British ultimatum demanding withdrawal of the public assemblies bill. Chamberlain read the text of the second note which, though it expresses satisfaction with the turn of events, may get a cool reception in Cairo because of request that the public assemblies bill not be reintroduced.

The note sent to Lord Lloyd, British high commissioner in Egypt, to be presented to the Egyptian government, expressed the hope that the government would be careful to avoid any revival of the controversy.

The text of the second note shows Great Britain declined to discuss the declaration of Egyptian independence of 1922. The British government, the note made plain, is resolved to protect foreign communities for which that declaration makes Great Britain responsible.

London, May 2.—The ultimatum issued by the British government on the present Egyptian situation is not justified by the point at issue, which has been unduly magnified, Premier Nahas Pasha of Egypt said in a special cable to the London Daily Mail today.

He said the public assemblies bill was passed under the foreign ministry of Harwat Pasha and had been passed by both houses of parliament without the British government raising difficulties.

"The bill is now in the last stages before the senate and can not reasonably be withdrawn after it has been sanctioned by both houses," the Egyptian leader cabled. "On the other hand the bill on its merits is in no way opposed to public security. I publicly declared the government was willing to introduce legislative modifications should any provision of the bill be deficient in practice."

"Nevertheless the British government has sent an ultimatum claiming they not only have the right of intervention in Egyptian internal legislation but also asking our recognition of such intervention by withdrawing the bill, contrary to the constitutional rule and precedent. Such an attitude could not be tolerated by the Egyptian parliament or public opinion."

"The 1922 treaty was meant to be unilateral."

Cairo, May 2.—It was reported that the ministers of foreign affairs and finance had submitted their resignations this afternoon because of the Anglo-Egyptian crisis.

KERENSKY THINKS TROTSKY'S CAREER NEARING ITS END

Paris, May 2.—(UP)—Alexander Kerensky, who led the first Russian revolution ten years ago which caused the overthrow of the czar, believes Leon Trotsky's career is ended. Le Petit Journal published an interview with Kerensky today in which he said Trotsky's lack of audacity, shown especially after Lenin's death when he could have captured power, had spelled his doom.

LIEUT. R. V. THOMAS IN EFFORT TO BREAK ENDURANCE MARK

TO WAGE SINGLE-HANDED FIGHT AGAINST FATIGUE AND AIR PERILS

PLANE, THE RELIANCE, LOADED TO DANGER POINT WITH GASOLINE

Roosevelt Field, May 2.—(UP)—Lieut. Royal V. Thomas went aloft in a single-motored Bellanca monoplane at 10:07 A. M. today to wage a single-handed fight against fatigue and the perils of the air in an effort to break the world record for sustained flight.

Thomas' plane, the Reliance, loaded to the danger point with gasoline, could not carry the added weight of a co-pilot, he decided at the last minute.

He taxied for half a mile before he could get the Reliance in the air and even after he rose—the plane wobbled and for a moment seemed on the verge of crashing.

To set a record Thomas must survive a dreary stretch of more than 54 hours in the air, must go without sleep and probably will have little chance to eat.

The endurance record is held by Eddie Stinson and George Haldeman who flew back and forth across Jacksonville, Fla., recently for 53 hours, 36 minutes and 30 seconds. Rules of endurance flying require that Thomas must stay in the air at least an hour longer than Haldeman and Stinson or his record will not be official.

The Reliance is equipped with a radio.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 2.—Lieut. Royal V. Thomas who went aloft at 10:07 A. M. today to try single-handed for a record for sustained flight, came down after he had been in the air for a little more than half an hour.

Thomas went up alone in the single-motored Bellanca monoplane Reliance. The plane was heavily loaded with gasoline and after a short flight, Thomas found his plane could not stay aloft under the heavy load.

He made a safe landing by dumping fuel before coming down.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 2.—Lieut. Royal V. Thomas went aloft at 12:29 P. M. in a Bellanca monoplane on his second attempt today to break the world record for sustained flight.

Thomas, flying alone, first went up shortly after 10 A. M., but was forced down when his heavily laden plane failed to clear the hills to the west of Roosevelt Field.

STUDENT IN FLYING IS KILLED WHEN HIS PLANE CATCHES AFIRE

San Antonio, Tex., May 2.—(UP)—Cadet Irwin Bent, 23, of Fremont, N. C., student in the primary flying school at Brooks Field, was killed today when the De Havilland plane he was flying caught fire 700 feet from the ground and crashed.

Bent attempted to pilot the plane to earth instead of leaping with his parachute.

SUN MAY SOME DAY DIVIDE SELF

Paris, May 2.—(UP)—The sun some day may divide itself into two pieces, Dr. Julius Giacobini, leading astronomer, said in an interview regarding the "split star" Nova Pictoris, now occupying scientists' attention. Dr. Giacobini added that even now the sun may be in two pieces.

SNOWSTORMS AND HIGH WINDS RAGE IN NORWAY

CABLE SHIP, USED AS BASE OF SUPPLIES, SAILING FOR LATTER PORT

Stolp, Pomerania, Germany, May 2.—(UP)—The flight of the dirigible Italia has been postponed for a few days. General Umberto Nobile, leader of the North Pole expedition, said today. Nobile had planned to begin the trip from Stolp to King's Bay, Spitzbergen, tonight.

He said the dirigible would not start from Stolp until the cable ship Citta Di Milano, which will be used as a base of supplies, arrives in Kings Bay. Reports of snowstorms and high winds in Norway also influenced his decision to postpone the long flight.

Stolp, Germany, May 2.—Provided high winds abate, the flight of the Italian Polar dirigible, Italia, from Stolp to Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, probably will be made in 24 hours, it was announced today.

Commander Umberto Nobile had intended to leave about 4 A. M. today. He went to the hangars on the edge of the city with members of his staff and crew and received weather reports that said winds of cyclonic proportions were blowing over the course the Italia would have to take.

Nobile remained at the hangars until 1 A. M. and then returned to the hotel here, announcing postponement of the flight for at least 24 hours.

CAME HOME EARLY, IS REBUKED BY WIFE, THEN COMMITS SUICIDE

St. Louis, May 2.—(UP)—Foster Fordyce, 33, former Pittsburgh, Pa., clothing merchant, shot himself to death in the presence of his wife when she rebuked him for returning home early today.

"Well, I might as well end it all," Mrs. Fordyce says her husband remarked just before the shooting. He came here several weeks ago with his wife and 15 year old daughter, Dorothy Sumner, by a previous marriage.

MR. AND MRS. FORD BELIEVED SAILING FOR UNITED STATES

London, May 2.—(UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford were believed to have sailed today for the United States aboard the S. S. Majestic.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robinson, listed among the passengers of the giant liner which left Southampton at 11 a. m. were understood to be the Fords, who booked passage under that name when they sailed from New York.

SEEKS FATHER WHO DESERTED HER WHEN SHE WAS A BABY

Chicago, May 2.—(UP)—Thelma Brady, 85, arrived here yesterday on foot, seeking her father who deserted her when she was a year old. She had walked all the way from Memphis, Tenn.

FATHER BURNED TO DEATH; WIFE, DAUGHTER INJURED

Columbus, O., May 2.—(UP)—Joe Boyer, 85, was burned to death and his wife and daughter were burned seriously when fire, starting from a stove explosion, destroyed their home twelve miles east of here today.

It is believed that Mrs. Boyer was starting a fire with kerosene, which exploded when she applied the flame.

Daugherty, a 35-year-old stationery engineer, had testified that through a key-hole he saw his wife, Lillian, 33, in the arms of John Rokoosky, a star boarder, who, he asserted, was kissing Mrs. Daugherty.

"I got my revolver," he testified, "and told my wife she could not go to the theater with Rokoosky. She told me to get out of the house. Then she rushed at me, and my mind went blank."

Daugherty admitted he had obtained the gun "to have it out with Rokoosky." It exploded accidentally when his wife rushed him, he said. Rokoosky, however, denied alienating the affections of Mrs. Daugherty.

NO OFFICIAL COMMENT FOR SEVERAL DAYS

LORD LLOYD, BRITISH HIGH COMMISSIONER IN EGYPT, TO BE NOTIFIED

REPORTED 2 EGYPTIAN MINISTERS RESIGN BECAUSE OF CRISIS

London, May 2.—(UP)—Egypt's reply to the British ultimatum regarding withdrawal of the public assemblies bill was received today by Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary.

The cabinet is expected to discuss the reply forthwith but there will be no official comment for several days.

The government's attitude toward the reply, it was understood, may not be revealed until Lord Lloyd, British high commissioner in Egypt, first is notified of the attitude.

The Egyptian reply, it was understood, mentioned the fact that the Egyptian government had postponed action on the public assemblies bill and expressed the hope that Anglo-Egyptian relations soon would be improved.

"We hope the present difficulties may shortly be dispelled," the reply was understood to have said.

Sir Austin Chamberlain, foreign secretary, announced the dispatch of the second note to Cairo in the house of commons after Ramsay MacDonald, former prime minister, had questioned him concerning the Egyptian situation.

The foreign secretary confirmed receipt of Egypt's reply to the British ultimatum demanding withdrawal of the public assemblies bill. Chamberlain read the text of the second note which, though it expresses satisfaction with the turn of events, may get a cool reception in Cairo because of request that the public assemblies bill not be reintroduced.

The note sent to Lord Lloyd, British high commissioner, in Egypt, to be presented to the Egyptian government, expressed the hope that the government would be careful to avoid any revival of the controversy.

The text of the second note shows Great Britain declined to discuss the declaration of Egyptian independence of 1922. The British government, the note made plain, is resolved to protect foreign communities for which that declaration makes Great Britain responsible.

London, May 2.—The ultimatum issued by the British government on the present Egyptian situation is not justified by the point at issue, which has been unduly magnified, Premier Nahas Pasha of Egypt said in a special cable to the London Daily Mail today.

He said the public assemblies bill was passed under the foreign ministry of Harwat Pasha and had been passed by both houses of parliament without the British government raising difficulties.

"The bill is now in the last stages before the senate and can not reasonably be withdrawn after it has been sanctioned by both houses," the Egyptian leader cabled. "On the other hand the bill on its merits is in no way opposed to public security."

"I publicly declared the government was willing to introduce legislative modifications should any provision of the bill be deficient in practice."

"Nevertheless the British government has sent an ultimatum claiming they not only have the right of intervention in Egyptian internal legislation but also asking our recognition of such intervention by withdrawing the bill, contrarily to the constitutional rule and precedent. Such an attitude could not be tolerated by the Egyptian parliament or public opinion."

"The 1922 treaty was meant to be unilateral."

Cairo, May 2.—It was reported that the ministers of foreign affairs and finance had submitted their resignations this afternoon because of the Anglo-Egyptian crisis.

KERENSKY THINKS TROTSKY'S CAREER NEARING ITS END

Paris, May 2.—(UP)—Alexander Kerensky, who led the first Russian revolution ten years ago which caused the overthrow of the czar, believes Leon Trotsky's career is ended. Le Petit Journal published an interview with Kerensky today in which he said Trotsky's lack of audacity, shown especially after Lenin's death when he could have captured power, had spelled his doom.

TO WAGE SINGLE-HANDED FIGHT AGAINST FATIGUE AND AIR PERILS

PLANE, THE RELIANCE, LOADED TO DANGER POINT WITH GASOLINE

Roosevelt Field, May 2.—(UP)—Lieut. Royal V. Thomas went aloft in a single-motored Bellanca monoplane at 10:07 A. M. today to wage a single-handed fight against fatigue and the perils of the air in an effort to break the world record for sustained flight.

Thomas' plane, the Reliance, loaded to the danger point with gasoline, could not carry the added weight of a co-pilot, he decided at the last minute.

He taxied for half a mile before he could get the Reliance in the air and even after he rose the plane wobbled and for a moment seemed on the verge of crashing.

To set a record Thomas must survive a dreary stretch of more than 54 hours in the air, must go without sleep and probably will have little chance to eat.

The endurance record is held by Eddie Stinson and George Haldeman who flew back and forth across Jacksonville, Fla., recently for 53 hours, 36 minutes and 30 seconds. Rules of endurance flying require that Thomas must stay in the air at least an hour longer than Haldeman and Stinson or his record will not be official.

The Reliance is equipped with a radio.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 2.—Lieut. Royal V. Thomas who went aloft at 10:07 A. M. today to try single-handed for a record for sustained flight, came down after he had been in the air for a little more than half an hour.

Thomas went up alone in the single-motored Bellanca monoplane Reliance. The plane was heavily loaded with gasoline and after a short flight, Thomas found his plane could not stay aloft under the heavy load.

He made a safe landing by dumping fuel before coming down.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., May 2.—Lieut. Royal V. Thomas went aloft at 12:29 P. M. in a Bellanca monoplane on his second attempt today to break the world record for sustained flight.

Thomas, flying alone, first went up shortly after 10 A. M., but was forced down when his heavily laden plane failed to clear the hills to the west of Roosevelt Field.

STUDENT IN FLYING IS KILLED WHEN HIS PLANE CATCHES AFIRE

San Antonio, Tex., May 2.—(UP)—Cadet Irwin Bent, 23, of Fremont, N. C., student in the primary flying school at Brooks Field, was killed today when the De Havilland plane he was flying caught fire 700 feet from the ground and crashed.

SUN MAY SOME DAY DIVIDE SELF

Paris, May 2.—(UP)—The sun some day may divide itself into two pieces, Dr. Julius Giacobini, leading astronomer, said in an interview regarding the "split star" Nova Pictoris, now occupying scientists' attention. Dr. Giacobini added that even now the sun may be in two pieces.

SNOWSTORMS AND HIGH WINDS RAGE IN NORWAY

CABLE SHIP, USED AS BASE OF SUPPLIES, SAILING FOR LATTER PORT

Stolp, Pomerania, Germany, May 2.—(UP)—The flight of the dirigible Italia has been postponed for a few days, General Umberto Nobile, leader of the North Pole expedition, said today. Nobile had planned to begin the trip from Stolp to King's Bay, Spitzbergen, tonight.

He said the dirigible would not start from Stolp until the cable ship Citta Di Milano, which will be used as a base of supplies, arrives in Kings Bay. Reports of snowstorms and high winds in Norway also influenced his decision to postpone the long flight.

Stolp, Germany, May 2.—Provided high winds abate, the flight of the Italian Polar dirigible, Italia, from Stolp to Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, probably will be made in 24 hours, it was announced today.

Commander Umberto Nobile had intended to leave about 4 A. M. today. He went to the hangars on the edge of the city with members of his staff and crew and received weather reports that said winds of cyclonic proportions were blowing over the course the Italia would have to take.

Nobile remained at the hangars until 1 A. M., and then returned to the hotel here, announcing postponement of the flight for at least 24 hours.

CAME HOME EARLY, IS REBUKED BY WIFE, THEN COMMITS SUICIDE

St. Louis, May 2.—(UP)—Foster Fordyce, 33, former Pittsburgh, Pa., clothing merchant, shot himself to death in the presence of his wife when she rebuked him for returning home early today.

"Well, I might as well end it all," Mrs. Fordyce says her husband remarked just before the shooting. He came here several weeks ago with his wife and 15 year old daughter, Dorothy Sumner, by a previous marriage.

MR. AND MRS. FORD BELIEVED SAILING FOR UNITED STATES

London, May 2.—(UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford were believed to have sailed today for the United States aboard the S. S. Majestic.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robinson, listed among the passengers of the giant liner which left Southampton at 11 a. m. were understood to be the Fords, who booked passage under that name when they sailed from New York.

SEEKS FATHER WHO DESERTED HER WHEN SHE WAS A BABY

Chicago, May 2.—(UP)—Thelma Brady, 29, arrived here yesterday on foot, seeking her father who deserted her when she was a year old. She had walked all the way from Memphis, Tenn.

FATHER BURNED TO DEATH; WIFE, DAUGHTER INJURED

Columbus, O., May 2.—(UP)—Joe Boyer, 85, was burned to death and his wife and daughter were burned seriously when fire, starting from a stove explosion, destroyed their home twelve miles east of here today.

It is believed that Mrs. Boyer was starting a fire with kerosene, which exploded when she applied the flame.

L. C. HODGSON IS RE-ELECTED MAYOR, CITY OF ST. PAUL

St. Paul, May 2.—(UP)—Complete unofficial returns of Tuesday's municipal election today, showed L. C. Hodgson had been re-elected mayor of St. Paul with a plurality of 15,909 votes over his nearest opponent, John F. Scott.

Frank E. McAllister, labor's "stickler" candidate, was in third place.

The unofficial vote showed: Hodgson, 32,762; Scott, 16,853; McAllister, 13,154.

All members of the council except one—G. C. Sudheimer—were re-elected.

Sudheimer's place was won by O. W. Rohland, Jr.

The charter amendment which would have authorized the city council to establish bus lines in competition with street car service, if conditions so warranted, was defeated, as the necessary 60 per cent majority was not polled in its favor.

The vote was: For 30,314; against 27,259.

L. C. HODGSON IS RE-ELECTED MAYOR, CITY OF ST. PAUL

St. Paul, May 2.—(UP)—Complete unofficial returns of Tuesday's municipal election today, showed L. C. Hodgson had been re-elected mayor of St. Paul with a plurality of 15,999 votes over his nearest opponent, John F. Scott.

Frank E. McAllister, labor's "stickler" candidate, was in third place.

The unofficial vote showed:
Hodgson, 32,762.
Scott, 16,853.
McAllister, 13,154.

All members of the council except one—G. C. Sudheimer—were re-elected.

Sudheimer's place was won by O. W. Rohland, Jr.

The charter amendment which would have authorized the city council to establish bus lines in competition with street car service, if conditions so warranted, was defeated, as the necessary 60 per cent majority was not polled in its favor.

The vote was: For 30,314; against 27,259.

GOULD-GRAY CO. SELLS LARGE BRAINERD BUSINESS HOLDINGS

J. Herschel Hardy, Chicago, Buys Ransford, Annex, Towne and McFadden, Wise Blocks

TO IMPROVE BUILDINGS

Constitutes One of Largest Real Estate Transactions in City in Many Years

J. Herschel Hardy, of Chicago, Ill., has purchased the Ransford hotel, stores and annex, Towne and McFadden block, Wise block from the Gould-Gray Co. The transaction was closed last evening and constitutes the largest real estate deal put through in Brainerd in many years.

Mr. Hardy is a chain hotel man, owning six other hotels located in five different states. He does not come under the head of an operator because all of his other hotel properties and theatres are leased over a period of years.

Two of the hotels are leased to the Boss Chain of hotels with headquarters at Oelwein, Iowa. Mr. Hardy states his intention is to buy other property in the state of Minnesota. With the new acquisition the total rentals derived are in excess of $200 a day aggregating about $30,000 a year, this income being derived from 65 tenants located in five states.

The change in ownership does not in any way affect the lease of the present hotel operators, Ernest and Harry Butler, who have operated the Hotel Ransford for several years. The general offices of Mr. Hardy are located at 134 North LaSalle street, Chicago. Associated with Mr. Hardy is his brother, H. W. Hardy, also of Chicago. Mrs. Jessie Hardy, wife of J. H. Hardy, owns a hotel independently in Kansas.

The transaction here makes the third hotel purchased by Mr. Hardy in the four months of this year.

The new owner takes possession immediately. Attorney A. D. Polk represented all parties in the legal matter of the transaction.

By the new acquisition Mr. Hardy takes on 30 tenants which still leaves the Gould-Gray Co. in excess of 60 tenants in their large holdings here. The transaction will not affect any change in the Gould-Gray Co. They will continue to remain in business with offices in their present location and will be local agents for the present for Mr. Hardy.

Mr. Hardy is further interested in the book publishing business as well as being an officer of the stock and bond company of Meyer-Hardy and Co. He is a member of the Association of Commerce of Chicago as well as many civic clubs and he announces his desire to assist in the betterment and boosting of Brainerd to the fullest extent. He makes no definite announcement as to his future plans although he is quite definite in the point that there shall be a considerable sum of money expended in the improvement of the Ransford hotel.

The Ransford hotel was built in 1905 by the late R. R. Wise following the burning of the Arlington hotel also owned by Mr. Wise. The center section was constructed first and later additions were made. The hotel was first leased to Thomas Beare, then Mr. Wise operated it himself later leasing it to O. H. Johnson and the Butler Brothers in turn.

Since Mr. Wise's death three years ago, the property has been owned by R. R. Gould and N. W. G. Gray. Listed among the present holdings of the Gould-Gray Co. and businesses in which they are interested in Brainerd are the following: Iron Exchange building, one of the finest office buildings in the northwest, which also houses the New Brainerd hotel; the Anna block, South Seventh street, the National and Ideal hotels, and the Ohio block. The largest hotel owned by the Gould-Gray Co. is the Waldorf at Fargo, a modern 150 room hotel which was built by Mr. Wise. The 10,000 Lakes garage was also constructed by Mr. Wise, who will be remembered as the late president of the 10,000 Lakes Association and always a booster for Minnesota.

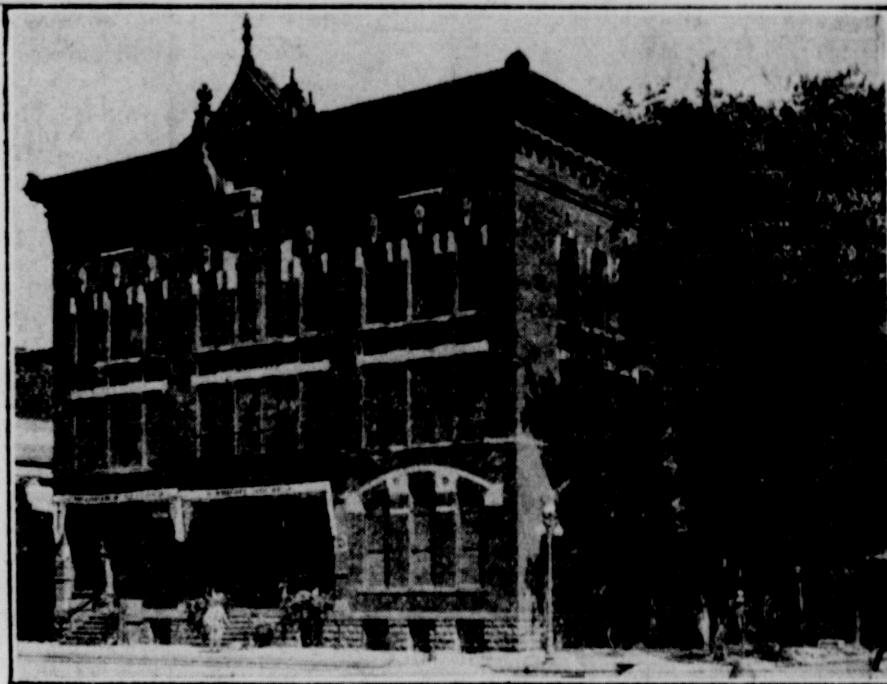

The other hotels owned by Mr. Hardy include the Bartell, a modern hotel of 110 rooms and 50 baths located in Junction City, Kansas, a city of 11,000 population, the Mealey, a strictly modern fireproof house of a hundred rooms at Oelwein, Iowa, a city of 12,000 population, the Hildreth, a modern hotel of 75 rooms, located at Clay Center, Kansas, a city of 5,000, the Wright rooms at Charles City, Iowa, with a population of 8,500; the Bonham, another hotel of 75 rooms, located at Clay Center, Kansas, a city of 5,000, the Wright house with 65 rooms at Alma, Mich., and the Woods Hotel, of Quincy, Ill.

Widening the Telephone Horizon

IN THE memory of many now living, Alexander Graham Bell predicted that the day would come when we could talk to other countries, even across wide expanses of water.

Bell's vision was made a reality when in 1926 New York and London spoke together in two way conversation. Since then, this service has been opened to the public between any point in the U. S. A. and Great Britain. Mexico has been brought into speaking distance. Important cities of continental Europe have come within our voice horizon.

Even more important, the Bell System in the United States now embraces 18,500,000 telephones—a growth for the past year of more than 750,000.

This is measurable progress in widening America's telephone horizon.

To be Given Under Auspices of Martha Mary Circle of M. E. Ladies Aid

AT M. E. CHURCH, MAY 7

Play Presented by Lowell P. T. A. on March 9 to Large Assemblage

"Anne What's Her Name," to be given under the auspices of the Martha Mary Circle of the M. E. ladies aid next Monday evening, May 7, in the church basement can be best explained by stating that it is the same play which was given under the auspices of the Lowell P. T. A. on March 9.

The play made such a hit at that time in the U. C. T. auditorium which was crowded, that many requests have been showered upon the cast for a second performance; and the ladies aid is to be congratulated on getting them together to repeat this spice pudding comedy. The following is the cast of characters: Anthony Wheat (Tony), a victim of circumstances—G. H. Berkholder. Burks, his valet, faithful to the end—J. E. Crust. Marjorie, a very modern young woman—Alta Holden. Aunt Julia, the Judge's sister-in-law, Mrs. Elmer Forsberg Barbara, a flapper who flaps—Astrid Olsen.

Doran, a plain-clothes detective—Elmer Forsberg.

Two of the hotels are leased to the Ross Chain of hotels with headquarters at Oelwein, Iowa. Mr. Hardy states his intention is to buy other property in the state of Minnesota. With the new acquisition the total rentals derived are in excess of $200 a day aggregating about $30,000 a year, this income being derived from 65 tenants located in five states.

The change in ownership does not in any way affect the lease of the present hotel operators, Ernest and Harry Butler, who have operated the Hotel Ransford for several years. The general offices of Mr. Hardy are located at 134 North LaSalle street, Chicago. Associated with Mr. Hardy is his brother, H. W. Hardy, also of Chicago. Mrs. Jessie Hardy, wife of J. H. Hardy, owns a hotel independently in Kansas.

The transaction here makes the third hotel purchased by Mr. Hardy in the four months of this year.

By the new acquisition Mr. Hardy takes on 30 tenants which still leaves the Gould-Gray Co. in excess of 60 tenants in their large holdings here. The transaction will not affect any change in the Gould-Gray Co. They will continue to remain in business with offices in their present location and will be local agents for the present for Mr. Hardy.

Mr. Hardy is further interested in the book publishing business as well as being an officer of the stock and bond company of Meyer-Hardy and Co. He is a member of the Association of Commerce of Chicago as well as many civic clubs and he announces his desire to assist in the betterment and boosting of Brainerd to the fullest extent. He makes no definite announcement as to his future plans although he is quite definite in the point that there shall be a considerable sum of money expended in the improvement of the Ransford hotel.

The Ransford hotel was built in 1905 by the late R. R. Wise following the burning of the Arlington hotel also owned by Mr. Wise. The center section was constructed first and later additions were made. The hotel was first leased to Thomas Beare, then Mr. Wise operated it himself later leasing it to O. H. Johnson and the Butler Brothers in turn.

Since Mr. Wise's death three years ago, the property has been owned by R. R. Gould and N. W. G. Gray. Listed among the present holdings of the Gould-Gray Co. and business in which they are interested in Brainerd are the following: Iron Exchange building, one of the finest office buildings in the northwest, which also houses the New Brainerd hotel; the Anna block, South Seventh street, the National and Ideal hotels, and the Ohio block. The largest hotel owned by the Gould-Gray Co. is the Waldorf at Fargo, a modern 150 room hotel which was built by Mr. Wise. The 10,000 Lakes garage was also constructed by Mr. Wise, who will be remembered as the late president of the 10,000 Lakes Association and always a booster for Minnesota.

The other hotels owned by Mr. Hardy include the Bartell, a modern hotel of 110 rooms and 50 baths located in Junction City, Kansas, a city of 11,000 population, the Meeley, a strictly modern fireproof house of a hundred rooms at Oelwein, Iowa, a city of 12,000 population, the Hildreth, a modern hotel of 75 rooms, located at Clay Center, Kansas, a city of 5,000, the Wright rooms at Charles City, Iowa, with a population of 8,500; the Bonham, another hotel of 75 rooms, located at Clay Center, Kansas, a city of 5,000, the Wright house with 65 rooms at Alma, Mich., and the Woods Hotel, of Quincy, Ill.

TO REPEAT "ANNE WHAT'S HER NAME"

To be Given Under Auspices of Martha Mary Circle of M. E. Ladies Aid

AT M. E. CHURCH, MAY 7
Play Presented by Lowell P. T. A. on March 9 to Large Assemblage

"Anne What's Her Name," to be given under the auspices of the Martha Mary Circle of the M. E. ladies aid next Monday evening, May 7, in the church basement can be best explained by stating that it is the same play which was given under the auspices of the Lowell P. T. A. on March 9.

The play made such a hit at that time in the U. C. T. auditorium which was crowded, that many requests have been showered upon the cast for a second performance; and the ladies aid is to be congratulated on getting them together to repeat this spice pudding comedy. The following is the cast of characters: Anthony Wheat (Tony), a victim of circumstances—G. H. Berkholder, Burks, his valet, faithful to the end—J. E. Crust. Marjorie, a very modern young woman—Alta Holden. Aunt Julia, the Judge's sister-in-law, Mrs. Elmer Forsberg Barbara, a flapper who flaps—Astrid Olsen.

Mooney, the temperamental maid, with nerves—Edna Anderson. Willie Peabody, the boy from next door—Henry Viken. Doran, a plain-clothes detective—Elmer Forsberg. Grandma, aged 82, but with young ideas—Mrs. Cora Cook. Louise Byers, her companion—Violet Stanley. Judge Bunby, the head of the house—Elmer Forsberg. Doctor Aked, a friend of the family—Frank Kaufman. Nancy Brown, the girl from Rosedale—Ruth Templeton. Ebenezer Whittle, the Judge's nephew—J. E. Crust. Mrs. Ebenezer Whittle, looking for Ebenezer—Ida Graetz. Two Little Whittles—James Clark Crust, Margaret Marie Gronquist. Anyone wishing tickets may procure same by calling any member of the Martha Mary Circle or of the cast.

Widening the Telephone Horizon

IN THE memory of many now living, Alexander Graham Bell predicted that the day would come when we could talk to other countries, even across wide expanses of water.

Bell's vision was made a reality when in 1926 New York and London spoke together in two way conversation. Since then, this service has been opened to the public between any point in the U. S. A. and Great Britain. Mexico has been brought into speaking distance. Important cities of continental Europe have come within our voice horizon.

Even more important, the Bell System in the United States now embraces 18,500,000 telephones—a growth for the past year of more than 750,000.

This is measurable progress in widening America's telephone horizon.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 2, 1928

GOVERNOR'S CORDIAL WELCOME

AN eloquent and appealing invitation to visit Minnesota and a welcome to this great commonwealth are voiced by Governor Theodore Christianson in the May issue of The Rotarian. It is so aptly worded that the Dispatch is pleased to publish it in full, as showing in a measure the interest stirred up by this great international convention of Rotary convening at Minneapolis next month.

The governor writes:

The people of Minnesota are happy to know that Rotary International will hold its annual convention in their State this year. It will be my pleasure to extend to the Rotarians a personal welcome when they come here. All I can do now is to assure them that the service ideal which Rotary so finely exemplifies knows no group boundaries, and that Minnesotans are all of one mind in wanting to make the convention in Minneapolis in June a notable and enjoyable event.

You will come from every State and from many lands. It will interest you, therefore, to know that the 2,600,000 men, women, and children who constitute the population of Minnesota represent many groups and racial strains. Here the blood of New England, New York, and Pennsylvania is being mingled with that of Great Britain, Ireland, Germany, and Scandinavia in a new synthesis.

The New England and Scandinavian influences were potent in the building of the State; here the Puritans of two continents met. They were buttressed by thousands of Germans, who by their stability, industry, and integrity have strengthened the commonwealth. And we have enough Irish to man the police forces and hold some of the more important offices! These, who constitute the principal elements of the earlier population, have been supplemented in recent years by a small sprinkling of the best stocks of southern and eastern Europe, who are showing a commendable desire to fit themselves as soon as may be into the economic, social, and civic structure of America.

In the main, the people of Minnesota are of pioneer stock. And what pioneers they were—these grandfathers and grandmothers of the Middle Border! They had strength—strength of body, mind, and character—to bear the burdens and endure the hardships of the wilderness. They had patience—the willingness to wait through long and anxious years, until the seed they sowed could grow to fruit or blossom into flower. And they had vision—the discernment to see that around the source of the great Mississippi was all that a strong and patient people needed to build a great commonwealth.

No inventory can be given you, in this brief message, of the resources of Minnesota in agriculture, industry, mining, commerce. To those who visit us in June we must, however, emphasize that there is inspiration in Minnesota's charming out-of-doors. The Land of Sky Blue Waters each spring renews its welcome to those who enjoy a vacation-land where lake beaches, clear streams, cool forests, broad highways, and vista-giving hills offer a wholesome recreation that really re-creates.

Your organization terms itself International—and is so in the best meaning of that much-abused word. With that fact in mind let me in closing say that while Minnesotans are proud of their State they are not imbued with any spirit of chauvinism. Minnesota makes no claim to being unique in merit. We recognize that sectional arrogance has no place in America, and that national arrogance is a world menace. Ours is simply a reasonable appreciation of the privileges which are ours as citizens of a favored State. In the national group of stars, Minnesota is known as the North Star State. As the North Star serves in a unique and helpful way to direct the wayfarer on his course, so, I hope, may Minnesota as the North Star State direct some Rotarian travelers in their quest for the route to a richer life.

It will be a pleasure to welcome you personally when you come to Minnesota in June.

Brainerd and the Brainerd Lake Region are interested in the governor's allusions to Minnesota as the Land of Sky Blue Waters. We believe that there will be a large influx of visitors from Rotary International, exploring our lake country and enjoying the many opportunities afforded in the way of recreation and as the governor so truly terms it, "re-creation."

After a strenuous trip from foreign climes, the strict attention to convention affairs, comes the desire for relaxation and no place affords such opportunities better than a visit to our lake region with its incomparable resorts, cottages, etc., coupled with all that the lake country affords in the way of boating, fishing, swimming, golfing, horse back riding, hiking, motoring, dancing, etc., or in just plain "resting and taking things easy."

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT

DUE to the initiative of Mike Mareca of Hartley Lake, who has circulated a petition addressed to the Highway Department, we may acquire a center marking of the tarvia road on No. 19 trunk highway from Brainerd to its terminal at Pequot.

In twilight or dark nights driving on the tarvia requires a keen eye so that one does not get too close to the edge when passing cars. With a center line mark, the latter will serve as a dependable guide and the wonder is that it has been neglected so long as an aid to safe navigation.

THE majority of the board of education apparently consider themselves better qualified to determine the location of the high school than the voters and taxpayers who pay the bills. However, they did generously leave the question of issuing bonds to pay the bills to the judgment of the people—the law requires it.

BRAINERD is attracting the interest of outside investors. It often happens that the man on the outside has a clearer perspective of the city's advantages and opportunities than the man who has lived years in Brainerd.

NINE counties in the state pay a higher rate of taxation than Crow Wing county and seventy-eight a lower rate—surely not a good showing for Crow Wing county.

CROSBY has a fine playhouse, comfortably seating its audience. There are wide aisles. Not a single pillar or girder mars the clear view of the stage.

OUR section sustained an irreparable loss when inclement weather killed many of our wild bird songsters.

GLORIOUS BETSY

NOVELIZED BY
ARLINE DE HAAS

Copyright 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.,
"GLORIOUS BETSY," starring Dolores Costello, is a Warner Bros. glorification of this novel. Based on the play by Rida Johnson Young.

SYNOPSIS

"A miniature of Betsy Patterson is tossed into a card game at Sweet Springs Inn by Preston, who boasts she gave it to him. La Vert over-hears the remark and challenges Preston, wounding him in the ensuing duel. With the miniature safe, La Vert wanders into the woods, where he meets the lovely original of the picture wading in a stream. La Vert says nothing of the duel and allows Betsy to chide him for the unmanliness of his teaching profession. While he, in turn, mocks the worthlessness of her cavaliers, they are startled by distant voices calling, 'Betsy!'"

"I shall see you at ten o'clock then—your French lesson."
"Yes—yes, at ten!" She turned and scurried along the path as fast as her bare feet would allow, followed by the dog, barking and leaping about her skirts.

CHAPTER III

Before a massive mahogany sideboard, decorated with decanters and a gleaming array of bottles, stood a negro servant in livery. Into a tall, fat-bellied glass full of finely cracked ice at the bottom of which reposed some sugar, he carefully measured a generous portion of Bourbon rye from a cobwebbed bottle. He stirred the mixture meticulously, and brought the sugar seeping up through the ice. From a pile of fresh, green mint he selected several small sprigs, crushed them, and stirred them in the glass. At last a white coating of frost began to appear on the surface of the container. Once more the servant selected several long stalks of the mint and thrust them down into the drink, so that they raised their green heads over the rim of the glass.

"Eph! Eph, where's my julep? Don't you realize it's seven o'clock?" The loud voice came from the adjoining room of the Patterson suite in the Sweet Springs Inn, where William Patterson stood gazing at himself in a mirror, adjusting his stock. A short, heavy set man with a florid face, bushy sideburns, and twinkling eyes that could blaze with anger. And blazng they were, now, for the stock was too tight, and had to be rearranged. And so he fussed, and fumed, and swore, this stocky man who, despite his great wealth and the possession of many merchant ships, and his social prominence in Baltimore, claimed fame chiefly because he was the father of "Glorious Betsy."

Mumbling an answer, the negro surveyed the work of his hands with approval, and then picked up the glass, set it on a tray, and started for the bedroom. But at that moment a knock came at the outer door and, tray in hand, Eph hurried to answer. He turned the heavy brass knob, threw open the door, and admitted Mistress Patterson's French tutor.

"Good morning, Eph," Monsieur La Vert greeted the negro. Then his eyes lighted on the julep. "Ah, thank you," he took the glass from the tray and began sipping the liquor.

"Mornin', Sah," Eph returned, his eyes popping as they followed the movements of the tutor. "Scuse me, sah, but da's Marse Patterson's julep."

"Mr. Patterson's?" Monsieur La Vert nodded. "It was indeed good." He replaced the empty glass on the tray and smiled at the astonished negro.

"Eph! Eph! Where the devil's that boy!" The voice came from the adjoining room, and in another moment Major Patterson was standing in his bedroom doorway glaring at the negro. "Where's my julep?" he demanded, his face red, his untied stock dangling from his hand.

"Scuse me, sah," the negro looked from the one inmate to the other, scarcely knowing what to say. "Do de Frenchman, took it, sah," he finally explained accusingly.

Novarro Finds an Ideal Vehicle in "The Student Prince"

Ramon Novarro, hero of "Ben-Hur" and other famous plays, has found the ideal vehicle for his romantic type of portrayal in "The Student Prince," the spectacular Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production showing at the Lyceum Theatre tonight, also Thursday and Friday. In the role made famous on the stage by Richard Mansfield, Novarro has what he believes is the best part in

"Well, upon my word!" Patterson spluttered, his face becoming redder than ever, and his voice becoming louder and louder. "Don't you know, you rascally tutor, you, that I always have my julep while dressing?"

"Ah, but, sir," the tutor bowed low, "a julep is the American Lotus Flower! But a sip, and one is doomed to live forever in the land of hot cakes and fried meats."

"Here, let me tell you something, sir," the Major advanced threateningly. "I have stood enough of your insolence! Betsy has taken her last lesson of you!"

But the choleric outburst of Betsy's father was interrupted by the appearance of a rotund, beaming and pink-cheeked woman of about fifty, who trotted along the hall and into the parlor as blithely as might Betsy have herself. The wide skirt of her gray morning dress brushed the door on either side as she entered, and her black reticule plopped at her side in gay abandon.

"Mercy on us, William," Mistress Ellen Massenbird explained, bounding into the room and shaking an accusing finger at her brother-in-law. "Do control yourself. And do be quiet. The children have not yet awakened."

"Yas'm, Miz Ellen," Eph put in. "Dey's up. Miz Betty an' Miz Mary, bof. Since five o'clock. Dey done gone fo' a walk."

"What! Up since five o'clock, and tramping over the hills alone!" Mistress Massenbird exclaimed, throwing up her hands in horror.

"Dey warn't alone, Miz Ellen," Eph shook his curly black head. "Dey had gennem wiv 'em."

"Gentlemen!" The plump little figure emitted a faint scream and sank back into a chair. "Mercy on us! My galls! Where are my smelling salts?" She searched the reticule frantically for the little bottle; discovered it; and applied it to her nostrils vigorously. "Before daylight, too," she moaned.

"Oh, I'm breathless!"

"Here come Miz Mary now," Eph pointed out the window that overlooked the garden.

From that vantage point they all could see a huddled figure of a young girl running along the path that led from the woods. Her hair was blown about, and her bonnet was hanging by the strings about her neck, and swinging back and forth between her shoulders as she ran. Her face peered over a tremendous bunch of wild flowers that filled her two arms to overflowing.

"I shall go down to meet them," William, Miss Massenbird exclaimed, jumping up from her chair and scurrying through the door. Major Patterson grunted and returned to his room to finish dressing, sending back instructions over his shoulder to Eph concerning the duplication of his lost julep. But Monsieur La Vert, anxious to see the outcome of the little drama, and, incidentally, Betsy, hurried after the disappearing figure of Betsy's chaperone.

"Aunt Ellen! Aunt El—Oh, you're up," Betsy's cousin wig-wagged the flowers as she patted up through the garden and the two figures, Mistress Ellen in the lead, advanced onto the porch.

"Yes, I'm up," Miss Massenbird returned primly. "Where's Betsy Patterson, may I ask?"

"Why, she's—she's coming—but she can't walk very fast, Auntie," Mary explained, her eyes on the ground, and a decided blush mantling cheeks.

"Can't walk fast!" Miss Massenbird gasped. "Mercy on us, has she broken her—something?" she questioned delicately.

"No—Oh, no, Auntie, she hasn't got her shoes on, and—"

"Hasn't her shoes on! Lord bless us!" For the second time that morning Miss Massenbird precipitated herself into a chair without due ceremony.

"Well, you see, Auntie," Mary explained lamely, "we met a little barefoot boy, and Betty said that she envied him his freedom, and then Sir Henry said he'd wager Betty couldn't take three steps in her bare feet."

"Her bare feet! Oh! Oh! Miss Massenbird's rocking chair was going full tilt.

"Yes," Mary continued hastily, "and Betty will never take a dare, you know, so she pulled off her shoes and stockings and declared she'd go wading—and she did—in the spring, while I entertained the gentlemen, and then she said she'd walk all the way back to the hotel that way, and he's going to give her a dozen pairs of silk stockings from France for doing it, 'cause he said she couldn't."

And as she finished a sound of laughter came from the woods and in another moment Betty and her admirers appeared on the pathway.

"There she is," exclaimed Miss Massenbird, jumping up and preparing to welcome the truant, chattering and laughing, of course—some man deserving attendance upon her."

his career. Norma Shearer plays the heroine, and Ernst Lubitsch, the famous German director, directed the play. A huge cast of principals and some two hundred extras appear in the huge production, which many claim is even more impressive than the stage version.

BERTHA TO PLAY MORA ON MAY 6

OPENING HOME GAME AT BERTHA TO DRAW LARGE CROWD

Bertha will go up against last year's state champions in the first game of the season, which weather permitting, will take place on the home grounds Sunday afternoon, May 6. An association umpire will introduce the batteries to the public and say "Play Ball!" promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

Mora is the team which Manager Ernie Fisher decided would be a big drawing card for the opener. And, naturally, he cast about for the very best in the state, showing that Bertha is unafraid.

In a letter to Mr. Fisher from Wygant, playing manager, that gentleman speaks as follows of his lineup:

"For the game against you on May 6th we will have Charlie Hand-schu, former Northern Leaguer, as catcher. He was a member of the team last year and did more than his share in winning the state championship. For pitching we have already secured the services of Pewee Stromwell for the season and are negotiating for another good man to take with us to Bertha but I am unable to say who it will be. H. Bildsten will play first base. He has played semi-pro ball for several years out of the twin cities. M. Baker will play second base. He was with the team last year and was among the first four in the league hitting. He had his tryout with St. Paul Association team four years ago but was finally released and has been burning up the smaller leagues since. The third base position is still unsolved, although we have several former college stars in line and that position will be plugged up in good shape on May 6th. At shortstop we have Oscar Swanson, also a member of the team last year and a unanimous choice for the league's all-star team. For left field we have Jack Wygant, also of last year's team and a unanimous choice for that position on the league's all-star team. In centerfield will be Serline who last year played with the University team in that position and a member of the Mora team last year. In left field will be C. Amundson, also a veteran of the Mora team for several years. Other players who may see action will be Ripka and L. Amundson, besides two or three ex-leaguers with whom we are now negotiating."

The Bertha lineup is with few exceptions the same as last year. The mighty Donaldson will not be here, but in his place "Bill" Wilson will do mound duty and when opposing teams take kindly to his slants, Al Bernier will be called from the field to his rescue. George Brovold is another new player and so is Ray Hurr. Both bring splendid reputations with them.

Additional seats in the grandstand and bleachers have been provided and the grounds are being put in the best of condition for the game.

DONALD GEIST TO MEET GEORGE McCAFFREY FOR HIGH SCHOOL CHAMPIONSHIP

The finals in the boys' tennis tournament for high school students will be played tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock at Gregory Park courts with Donald Geist facing George

McCaffrey across the nets for the school championship.

In the semi-finals Geist defeated John Chadbourne 6 to 3, and George McCaffrey won from Roger Kieven, 6 to 0.

The finals in the girls' division will be played this week between Dorothy Kieven, Irene Molstad and Hazel Burns.

BYES DEFEAT STOREROOM, 12-2

WEAK DEFENSE BY LOSERS IN LAST THREE INNINGS GAVE BYES START

The Bye Clothing Co. defeated the N. P. Storeroom last night, 12 to 2, in a well played game which was featured by the defensive play of the winners who made but one error. The game promised to be a pitcher's duel but the Storeroom defense blew up in the last three innings and permitted eight runs to cross the plate on five errors and three hits.

Ericsson, pitching for the winners allowed five hits and struck out six men. Whitlock, pitching for the losers, allowed ten hits and struck out four men.

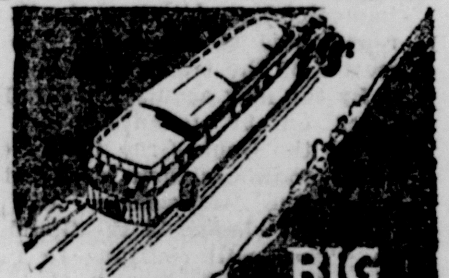

Tonight the Y. M. C. A., leaders in the city kittenball league, will meet the J. C. Penney Co. If the Clothing men can defeat the "Y" there will be four teams tied for first place.

Playing a postponed game the O'Brien Mercantile Co. will play the Bye Clothing Co. at the Koorings grounds tonight at 6:15 o'clock.

The standings follow:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Y. M. C. A.	3	0	1.000
American Express	3	1	.750
Bye Clothing Co.	2	1	.667

GOVERNOR'S CORDIAL WELCOME

AN eloquent and appealing invitation to visit Minnesota and a welcome to this great commonwealth are voiced by Governor Theodore Christianson in the May issue of The Rotarian. It is so aptly worded that the Dispatch is pleased to publish it in full, as showing in a measure the interest stirred up by this great international convention of Rotary convening at Minneapolis next month.

The governor writes:

The people of Minnesota are happy to know that Rotary International will hold its annual convention in their State this year. It will be my pleasure to extend to the Rotarians a personal welcome when they come here. All I can do now is to assure them that the service ideal which Rotary so finely exemplifies knows no group boundaries, and that Minnesotans are all of one mind in wanting to make the convention in Minneapolis in June a notable and enjoyable event.

You will come from every State and from many lands. It will interest you, therefore, to know that the 2,600,000 men, women, and children who constitute the population of Minnesota represent many groups and racial strains. Here the blood of New England, New York, and Pennsylvania is being mingled with that of Great Britain, Ireland, Germany, and Scandinavia in a new synthesis.

The New England and Scandinavian influences were potent in the building of the State; here the Puritans of two continents met. They were buttressed by thousands of Germans, who by their stability, industry, and integrity have strengthened the commonwealth. And we have enough Irish to man the police forces and hold some of the more important offices! These, who constitute the principal elements of the earlier population, have been supplemented in recent years by a small sprinkling of the best stocks of southern and eastern Europe, who are showing a commendable desire to fit themselves as soon as may be into the economic, social, and civic structure of America.

In the main, the people of Minnesota are of pioneer stock. And what pioneers they were—these grandfathers and grandmothers of the Middle Border! They had strength—strength of body, mind, and character—to bear the burdens and endure the hardships of the wilderness. They had patience—the willingness to wait through long and anxious years, until the seed they sowed could grow to fruit or blossom into flower. And they had vision—the discernment to see that around the source of the great Mississippi was all that a strong and patient people needed to build a great commonwealth.

No inventory can be given you, in this brief message, of the resources of Minnesota in agriculture, industry, mining, commerce. To those who visit us in June we must, however, emphasize that there is inspiration in Minnesota's charming out-of-doors. The Land of Sky Blue Waters each spring renews its welcome to those who enjoy a vacation-land where lake beaches, clear streams, cool forests, broad highways, and vista-giving hills offer a wholesome recreation that really re-creates.

Your organization terms itself International—and is so in the best meaning of that much-abused word. With that fact in mind let me in closing say that while Minnesotans are proud of their State they are not imbued with any spirit of chauvinism. Minnesota makes no claim to being unique in merit. We recognize that sectional arrogance has no place in America, and that national arrogance is a world menace. Ours is simply a reasonable appreciation of the privileges which are ours as citizens of a favored State. In the national group of stars, Minnesota is known as the North Star State. As the North Star serves in a unique and helpful way to direct the wayfarer on his course, so, I hope, may Minnesota as the North Star State direct some Rotarian travelers in their quest for the route to a richer life.

It will be a pleasure to welcome you personally when you come to Minnesota in June.

Brainerd and the Brainerd Lake Region are interested in the governor's allusions to Minnesota as the Land of Sky Blue Waters. We believe that there will be a large influx of visitors from Rotary International, exploring our lake country and enjoying the many opportunities afforded in the way of recreation and as the governor so truly terms it, "re-creation."

After a strenuous trip from foreign climes, the strict attention to convention affairs, comes the desire for relaxation and no place affords such opportunities better than a visit to our lake region with its incomparable resorts, cottages, etc., coupled with all that the lake country affords in the way of boating, fishing, swimming, golfing, horse back riding, hiking, motoring, dancing, etc., or in just plain "resting and taking things easy."

A NEEDED IMPROVEMENT

DUE to the initiative of Mike Marea of Hartley Lake, who has circulated a petition addressed to the Highway Department, we may acquire a center marking of the tarvia road on No. 19 trunk highway from Brainerd to its terminal at Pequot.

In twilight or dark nights driving on the tarvia requires a keen eye so that one does not get too close to the edge when passing cars. With a center line mark, the latter will serve as a dependable guide and the wonder is that it has been neglected so long as an aid to safe navigation.

THE majority of the board of education apparently consider themselves better qualified to determine the location of the high school than the voters and taxpayers who pay the bills. However, they did generously leave the question of issuing bonds to pay the bills to the judgment of the people—the law requires it.

BRAINERD is attracting the interest of outside investors. It often happens that the man on the outside has a clearer perspective of the city's advantages and opportunities than the man who has lived years in Brainerd.

NINE counties in the state pay a higher rate of taxation than Crow Wing county and seventy-eight a lower rate—surely not a good showing for Crow Wing county.

CROSBY has a fine playhouse, comfortably seating its audience. There are wide aisles. Not a single pillar or girder mars the clear view of the stage.

OUR section sustained an irreparable loss when inclement weather killed many of our wild bird songsters.

GLORIOUS BETSY

Copyright 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.,
"GLORIOUS BETSY," starring Dolores Costello, is a Warner Bros. picturization of this novel. Based on the play by Rida Johnson Young.

SYNOPSIS

A miniature of Betsy Patterson is tossed into a card game at Sweet Springs Inn by Preston, who boasts she gave it to him. La Vert overhears the remark and challenges Preston, wounding him in the ensuing duel. With the miniature safe, La Vert wanders into the woods, where he meets the lovely original of the picture leading in a stream. La Vert says nothing of the duel and allows Betsy to chide him for the unmanliness of his teaching profession. While he, in turn, mocks the worthlessness of her cavaliers, they are startled by distant voices calling, "Betsy."

"I shall see you at ten o'clock then—your French lesson."
"Yes—yes, at ten!" She turned and scurried along the path as fast as her bare feet would allow, followed by the dog, barking and leaping about her skirts.

CHAPTER III

Before a massive mahogany sideboard, decorated with decanters and a gleaming array of bottles, stood a negro servant in livery. Into a tall, fat-bellied glass full of finely cracked ice at the bottom of which reposed some sugar, he carefully measured a generous portion of Bourbon rye from a cobwebbed bottle. He stirred the mixture meticulously, and brought the sugar seeping up through the ice. From a pile of fresh, green mint he selected several small sprigs, crushed them, and stirred them in the glass. At last a white coating of frost began to appear on the surface of the container. Once more the servant selected several long stalks of the mint and thrust them down into the drink, so that they raised their green heads over the rim of the glass.

"Eph! Eph, where's my julep? Don't you realize it's seven o'clock?" The loud voice came from the adjoining room of the Patterson suite in the Sweet Springs Inn, where William Patterson stood gazing at himself in a mirror, adjusting his stock. A short, heavy set man with a florid face, bushy sideburns, and twinkling eyes that could blaze with anger, and blazng they were, now, for the stock was too tight, and had to be rearranged. And so he fussed, and fumed, and swore, this stocky man who, despite his great wealth and the possession of many merchant ships, and his social prominence in Baltimore, claimed fame chiefly because he was the father of "Glorious Betsy."

Mumbling an answer, the negro surveyed the work of his hands with approval, and then picked up the glass, set it on a tray, and started for the bedroom. Just at that moment a knock came at the outer door and, tray in hand, Eph hurried to answer. He turned the heavy brass knob, threw open the door, and admitted Mistress Patterson's French tutor.

"Good morning, Eph," Monsieur La Vert greeted the negro. Then his eyes lighted on the julep. "Ah, thank you," he took the glass from the tray and began sipping the liquor.

"Mornin', sah," Eph returned, his eyes popping as they followed the movements of the tutor. "Scuse me, sah, but da's Marse Patterson's julep."

"Mr. Patterson's?" Monsieur La Vert nodded. "It was indeed good." He replaced the empty glass on the tray and smiled at the astonished negro.

"Eph! Eph! Where the devil's that boy!" The voice came from the adjoining room, and in another moment Major Patterson was standing in his bedroom doorway glaring at the negro. "Where's my julep?" he demanded, his face red, his untied stock dangling from his hand.

"Scuse me, sah," the negro looked from the one man to the other, scarcely knowing what to say. "Da de Frenchman took it, sah," he finally explained accusingly.

"Well, upon my word!" Patterson spluttered, his face becoming redder than ever, and his voice becoming louder and louder. "Don't you know, you rascally tutor, you, that I always have my julep while dressing?"

"Ah, but, sir," the tutor bowed low, "a julep is the American Lotus Flower! But a sip, and one is doomed to live forever in the land of hot cakes and fried meats."

"Here, let me tell you something, sir," the Major advanced threateningly. "I have stood enough of your insolence! Betsy has taken her last lesson of you!"

But the choleric outburst of Betsy's father was interrupted by the appearance of a robed, beaming and pink-checked woman of about fifty, who trotted along the hall and into the parlor as blithely as might Betsy have herself. The wide skirt of her gray morning dress brushed the door on either side as she entered, and her black reticule plopped at her side in gay abandon.

"Mercy on us, William," Mistress Ellen Massenbird explained, bounding into the room and shaking an accusing finger at her brother-in-law. "Do control yourself. And do be quiet. The children have not yet awakened."

"Yes'm, Miz Ellen," Eph put in. "Dey's up. Miz Betty an' Miz Mary, too. Since five o'clock. Dey done gone for a walk."

"What! Up since five o'clock, and traipsing over the hills alone?" Mistress Massenbird exclaimed, throwing up her hands in horror. "Dey warn't alone, Miz Ellen," Eph shook his curly black head. "Dey had gennum wiv 'em."

"Gentlemen!" The plump little figure emitted a faint scream and sank back into a chair. "Mercy on us! My galls! Where are my smelling salts?" She searched the reticule frantically for the little bottle; discovered it; and applied it to her nostrils vigorously. "Before daylight, too," she moaned. "Oh, I'm breathless!"

"Dare come Miz Mary now," Eph pointed out the window that overlooked the garden.

From that vantage point they all could see a bearded figure of a young girl running along the path that led from the woods. Her hair was blown about, and her bonnet was hanging by the strings about her neck, and swinging back and forth between her shoulders as she ran. Her face peered over a tremendous bunch of wild flowers that filled her two arms to overflowing.

"I shall go down to meet them," William, Miss Massenbird exclaimed, jumping up from her chair and scurrying through the door. Major Patterson grunted and returned to his room to finish dressing, sending back instructions over his shoulder to Eph concerning the duplication of his lost julep. But Monsieur La Vert, anxious to see the outcome of the little drama, and, incidentally, Betsy, hurried after the disappearing figure of Betsy's chaperone.

"Aunt Ellen! Aunt El—Oh, you're up," Betsy's cousin wiggled the flowers as she panted up through the garden and the two figures, Mistress Ellen in the lead, advanced onto the porch. "Yes, I'm up," Miss Massenbird returned primly.

"Where's Betsy Patterson, may I ask?"

"Why, she's—she's coming—but she can't walk very fast, Auntie," Mary explained, her eyes on the ground, and a decided blush mantling cheeks.

"Can't walk fast?" Miss Massenbird gasped. "Mercy on us, has she broken her—something?" she questioned delicately.

"No—Oh, no, Auntie, she hasn't got her shoes on, and—"

"Hasn't her shoes on? Lord bless us! For the second time that morning Miss Massenbird precipitated herself into a chair without due ceremony."

"Well, you see, Auntie," Mary explained lamely, "we met a little barefoot boy, and Betty said that she envied him his freedom, and then Sir Henry said he'd wager Betty couldn't take three steps in her bare feet—"

"Her bare feet! Oh! Oh!" Miss Massenbird's rocking chair was going full tilt.

"Yes," Mary continued hastily, "and Betty will never take a dare, you know, so she pulled off her shoes and stockings and declared she'd go wading—and she did—in the spring, while I entertained the gentlemen, and then she said she'd walk all the way back to the hotel that way, and he's going to give her a dozen pairs of silk stockings from France for doing it, 'cause he said she couldn't. Mary was breathless from her recital, and even as she finished a sound of laughter came from the woods, and in another moment Betty and her admirers appeared on the pathway. "There she is," exclaimed Miss Massenbird, jumping up and preparing to welcome the truant, "chattering and laughing, of course—some man dancing attendance upon her, I'd be bound."

Amundson, also a veteran of the Mora team for several years. Other players who may see action will be Ripka and L. Amundson, besides two or three ex-leaguers with whom we are now negotiating."

The Bertha line-up is with few exceptions the same as last year. The mighty Donaldson will not be here, but in his place "Bill" Wilson will do mound duty and when opposing teams take kindly to his slants, Al Bernier will be called from the field to his rescue. George Brovold is another new player and so is Ray Hurr. Both bring splendid reputations with them.

Additional seats in the grandstand and bleachers have been provided and the grounds are being put in the best of condition for the game.

WEAK DEFENSE BY LOSERS IN LAST THREE INNINGS GAVE BYES START

The Bye Clothing Co. defeated the N. P. Storeroom last night, 12 to 2, in a well played game which was featured by the defensive play of the winners who made but one error. The game promised to be a pitcher's duel but the Storeroom defense blew up in the last three innings and permitted eight runs to cross the plate on five errors and three hits.

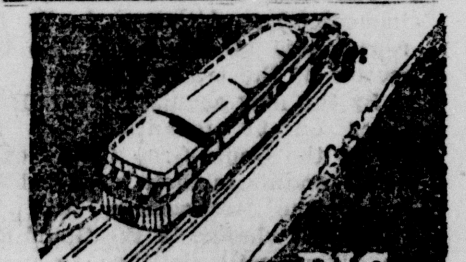

Eriesson, pitching for the winners allowed five hits and struck out six men. Whitlock, pitching for the losers, allowed ten hits and struck out four men.

Tonight the Y. M. C. A. A. leaders in the city kittenball league, will meet the J. C. Penney Co. If the Clothing men can defeat the "Y" there will be four teams tied for first place.

Playing a postponed game the O'Brien Mercantile Co. will play the Bye Clothing Co. at the Keering grounds tonight at 6:15 o'clock.

BOARD DECIDES SITES FOR SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Adopts Hagberg-Holvick Resolution Calling for Definite Locations of Buildings

SPECIAL ELECTION MAY 23

Members Deadlock on Submission of Alternate Two Building Proposition

Drastic action was taken by the school board last evening when after a proposition submitted by Mrs. J. A. Thabes and R. W. Crust for the submission of an alternate vote on school building sites became deadlocked, a resolution on motion of F. M. Hagberg, and John Holvick, carried by the vote of 7 to 3 calling for the submission of the question of building a senior and junior high school and grade school on the Washington site and the erection of a junior high and grade school on Block 82 or the so called fill site.

The ballot included in the resolution of Messrs. Hagberg and Holvick provides for separate questions on the erection of each building and also provides for the bond issue for each building to be separately voted on. Bonds specified call for $150,000 on the Washington school site and $100,000 on the fill site.

Included in the resolution was the date of the special election, set for May 23, at which time the questions will be submitted to the voters of Brainerd.

Those who voted in favor of the Hagberg-Holvick resolution were: F. M. Hagberg, George Falconer, Fred Drexler, John Holvick, L. F. Hohman, G. D. LaBar, M. E. Morrison, while the three opposing votes were cast by R. W. Crust, Mrs. J. A. Thabes and Elmer Forsberg.

Official publication of the ballot and notice of election is expected tomorrow.

At last night's meeting opinions of the attorneys were submitted to the board covering the questions submitted to them by the board at their previous meeting. The opinion submitted by the attorney general's office held that a majority vote of the electors voting on a proposition was required for the erection of a building or the issuance of bonds on either Block 82, the so called fill site or Block 155, the Washington site. The attorney general's office also submitted a sample ballot which could be used in the event that the proposition of voting on an alternate two building proposition was submitted.

Mrs. J. A. Thabes and R. W. Crust offered a resolution and moved its adoption which resolution provided for the submission of the alternate two building proposition to the voters. The alternate two building proposition, which resolution was deadlocked by the vote of 5 to 5 when placed, provides for the submission of two propositions to the voters. The first proposition provides for a junior and senior high school and grade school on the Washington site or Block 155, at a cost not to exceed $450,000 and that a junior high school and grade school be erected on Block 82 at a cost not to exceed $250,000. The second part of the program provides for two buildings as does the first proposition but alternates the buildings, that is, the senior and junior high school and grade school would be erected on the Washington site or Block 155 and the junior high and grade school would be erected on the fill site or Block 82. The resolution also provides for the submission of the question of a bond issue to the amount of $250,000 for the two schools if the proposition was accepted.

The board adjourned to meet again tonight.

Inferiority Complex Hokum Ousted in "Womanless Wedding"

GORGEOUS RAIMENT SHOWN

Eligible Male Population to Appear in Play May 9 and 10

Inferiority complex hokum ousted and dominance of fairer sex will cease as the cast of "Male Shebas" and "prima donnas" display pulchritude in "The Womanless Wedding". The feminine members of the audience will pale with envy as the plot unrolls on Wednesday and Thursday, May 9 and 10 at U. C. T. auditorium.

Gorgeous raiment and queenly carriage of bevy of stars, hastily chosen from eligible male population of the city, will elicit envious admiration of the feminine element. No doubt, standing room will be taxed to accommodate the great audience.

The worm has turned—if the metaphor may be pardoned—and femininity will be undone. So far as woman and her future relationship to our city is concerned the less said the better. It will require nearly two hours to present all of the evidence, in form, or rather forms of approximately sixty quite alluring "damsels" whose gender prior to the raising of the curtain, will have been wholly and unchangeable masculine.

There will be Galli Cured, Mary Pickford, Theda Bara, Rosie O'Grady and a regular galaxy of other sweet feminine visions, smiling saucily down at the audience to convince the most skeptical critics that drug store complexions are as easily applied to the masculine visage as to the feminine.

There will be a thrill—a throb—a laugh—and a sob. A barrel of love mixed with exotic dances and gripping romance will present a feast of melody, spontaneous mirth, a dash of tears and audacious cleverness. This will be a veritable sen-

Artistic Curtains and Drapes

Good taste, based upon a knowledge of available curtain fabrics and a few basic principles of window decoration, will enable any woman, at a cost which may be governed by one's own requirements, to achieve an attractive curtaining for her home, and few means of decoration add so much as these do.

We want you to see the beautiful cretonnes and draperies which we are showing so that you may plan just what your own case requires.

The one great outstanding fact in automobiles today is that, while practically every car that runs is patterned after Chrysler—the illustrious "72" continues to romp away from and around them all in every phase of performance that makes motoring a pleasure. Which can and does mean only one thing, of course—that since it can quickly be proven that Chrysler "72" excels every car which seeks to compete with it without a single exception, it unmistakably gives the greatest monetary and performance return which exists in the world motor-car market today.

Illustrious New Chrysler "72" Prices—Two-passenger Coupe (with rumble seat), $1345; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $1595; Four-passenger Coupe, $1595; Town Sedan, $1695; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; Crown Sedan, $1795. All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax.

Chrysler dealers are in a position to extend the convenience of time payments . . . New Chrysler "Red-Head" Engine—designed to take full advantage of high-compression gas, standard equipment on all body models of the 112 h.p. Imperial "80," also standard on the roadsters, and available at slight extra cost for other body types, of the "62" and "72."

MAY INVESTIGATE DELANEY'S TRAINING

N. Y. STATE ATHLETIC BODY TO TAKE ACTION

DELANEY'S TACTICS IN TRAINING TO BE GIVEN SEARCHING PROBE

LATTER CONSISTED MAINLY OF GOLF, DELANEY THINKING SHARKEY A "SET-UP"

New York, May 2. — (UP)—Jack Sharkey's sensational one-round knockout of Jack Delaney may lead to a thorough investigation of the match and the training tactics of Delaney by the New York State athletic commission.

After announcing that the commission already has started an investigation, Chairman James A. Farley repudiated this statement by saying that he was not at liberty to speak for the boxing body.

The investigation, it was learned, will be directed at Delaney's tactics. Word has been received from Bridgeport, Conn., where Delaney lived and trained for the bout, that the former light-heavyweight champion worked as little as three minutes on several occasions before the fight.

His training program, it was said, consisted mostly of golf, the French-Canadian regarding Sharkey as a "set-up."

If such is found to be the case, Delaney probably will be barred from boxing in New York State following a precedent set in 1925 when Eddie Shea was quietly barred from appearing here after he was knocked out in four rounds by the then bantamweight champion, Phil Rosenber.

Sharkey knocked out Delaney in 1 minute, 13 seconds, Monday night. Gamblers stirred up rumors that "frame-up" before the bout when they jumped the odds from 8 to 5 to 3 1/2 to 1 in thirty minutes.

The only nation of consequence not invited to participate in the Olympic Games is Soviet Russia. The Russians, accordingly, will hold international games of their own in August.

"The Spartacan Games of the Soviet Union" are expected to attract 1,000 men and women athletes, gymnasts, players and soldiers to Russia this summer.

Deriding the Olympic Games for their emphasis on individual effort, the promoters of the Spartacan Games will feature "collective sports." The Russian idea is to encourage the physical development of masses of people rather than exceptional strength, speed or skill on the part of a few champions.

Prizes will be awarded to national groups and to organizations rather than to individuals and first place in the festival will be given to mass exhibitions of gymnastics, folk plays and dramatic spectacles. Thus, even in their play, the modern Russians keep in character. There will be army maneuvers, parades and demonstrations of workers' solidarity.

We have been following sport for years without becoming aware of the "Red Sports International," but now it appears that there is such an organization, a union of labor sport organizations throughout the world with headquarters in Moscow. The "Red Sports International" will conduct the Spartacan Games jointly with Russian government officials, educational leaders, "aviation and chemical defense circles," military training organizations and others. When all these groups get to functioning, there should be a merry time. The athletes will come in handy to carry the arnica.

The Russians are looking forward to the Spartacan Games with characteristic solemnity. They plan to entertain 500 of the visiting athletes in style, paying all their expenses once they have crossed the Soviet frontiers. Others who go to Russia to take part in the games will be favored by reduced railroad fare and cheaper hotel accommodations.

The "Red Sports International" has announced that a score of countries have accepted its invitation. Brazil, Mongolia, Persia, South Africa, Japan and Sweden are a few of the nations which will send gymnasts, football players, swimmers, soldiers or whatever they have, to Moscow next summer. Labor sports organizations are well established in Czechoslovakia, Germany, Finland and Sweden, so these countries presumably will take a leading part among the visitors to the Spartacan Games. There will be an opportunity for every nation, since the official program embraces the most ambitious and diversified list of sports ever attempted.

TO BE UNDER MANAGEMENT OF BOB BLOCK

WILL PLAY AS SOUTH SIDE TEAM IN THE CITY LEAGUE

FITZHARRIS, WHITLOCK AND SWANSON DOING THE PITCHING

Brainerd is to have a fast city ball club this year under the management of Bob Block.

The following men are on the roster: Norman, Schwindeman, Lepinski, Whitlock, Olson, Fitzharris, Hanson, Peterson, Uddenberg, Eason, Bedal, Nutting, Anderson, Stallman, Sheffo, Imgrund, Beggs, Beck, Tracy, Johnson and Swanson.

They will play as the South Side team in the City League, with Fitzharris, Whitlock and Swanson doing the pitching, using Olson for the heavier games on Sundays and holidays.

Olson tried out for the Minneapolis Association team this spring but, needing seasoning, was let go. He had two contracts to play ball with other league teams, but chose to come to Brainerd and play ball under Manager Block.

Brainerd is now scheduling games with some fast teams, opening up here May 20 against the strong Wadena team. Wadena business men are putting in a good team, hiring a battery and three other outside players.

Games will be played with all of the fast road teams, including the House of David, Chicago Giants, and the Kansas City All-Stars.

INTRODUCE HORSE SHOES IN B. H. S. INTERMURAL MEET

ENTRIES SHOULD BE TURNED IN TO COACHES MILLS AND KASCH

TROPHIES TO BE AWARDED WIN- NER OF GIRLS' AND BOYS' DIVISION IN TOURNNEY

The ancient game of horse shoes first introduced into America with the blazing of the first trails and since discarded for backyard pastime comes back into existence again with its introduction in sports in the Brainerd high school by Coaches Mills and Warren J. Kasch.

The coaches have specified the game to be included in the intermural program this season and tournaments are to be staged for girls and boys divisions within the near future.

All entries are requested to be turned in immediately and it is hoped to have sufficient entries by Friday of this week to outline the schedule of games.

Trophies will be awarded the winner of the boys' and girls' divisions.

Standard horseshoes will be used with the boys twirling a 2 1/2 pound shoe and the girls a 1 1/2 pound shoe.

SENATORS AND CUBS CAN'T GET GOING IN PLAY

NOW STAND NEXT TO LAST IN MAJOR LEAGUE STAND- INGS

ERRORS, WEAK HITTING, POOR PITCHING TELLS THE STORY

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, May 2. — All is not serene in the camps of the Chicago Cubs and Washington Senators, two good ball clubs who can't seem to get going.

Next to last in the two major league standings today, the Cubs and Senators are hitting the trail that doesn't lead to the world series. Errors, weak hitting and poor pitching is the story.

The Senators have been tossing ball games away with reckless abandon and today were only a game and a half out of the cellar. After winning four out of the first five games, the Senators have dropped eight in a row.

An injured leg which has prevented Bucky Harris from playing regularly is one of the many reasons for the collapse of an apparently able ball club.

Insult was added to injury yesterday when Goose Goslin, who has been shouldering the biggest part of the Senators' offensive single-handed, was kept out of the game with a broken blood-vessel in his right arm, and Sammy West, young center fielder, crashed into the wall and had to leave the game with an injured back and leg.

The plight of the Cubs is not quite so bad. The failure of the highly-touted outfield to come through as expected and the inability of Charley Root to round into form has hindered the Cubs. Root has failed to win a game in four starts. Illness has prevented Hal Carlson from taking the mound and that, too, has set the Cubs back.

However, the Cubs have received unexpected pitching strength from Sheriff Blake, Percy Lee Jones and on one occasion Artie Nehf turned in a masterful game.

Hack Wilson's absence from the outfield with an injured ankle hasn't helped the Cubs get any runs either. Kiki Cuyler has been playing fine defensive baseball, but his hitting has been spotty and none too potent. Cuyler threw out two runners at third in yesterday's game with the Pirates, but made only one single in four times at bat off Carmen Hill.

Aurora Track Opening

Aurora, Ill.—Thousands of Chicagoans flocked to the Aurora track for the opening of the 1928 Illinois racing season. It was a record crowd for the inaugural day. Flora M., owned by John Grant of Chicago, won the feature handicap, finishing a head in front of Shasta Gold.

When all these groups get to functioning, there should be a merry time. The athletes will come in handy to carry the armica.

The Russians are looking forward to the Spartacan Games with characteristic solemnity. They plan to entertain 500 of the visiting athletes in style, paying all their expenses once they have crossed the Soviet frontiers. Others who go to Russia to take part in the games will be favored by reduced railroad fare and cheaper hotel accommodations.

The "Red Sports International" has announced that a score of countries have accepted its invitation. Brazil, Mongolia, Persia, South Africa, Japan and Sweden are a few of the nations which will send gymnasts, football players, swimmers, soldiers or whatever they have, to Moscow next summer.

Labor sports organizations are well established in Czechoslovakia, Germany, Finland and Sweden, so these countries presumably will take a leading part among the visitors to the Spartacan Games. There will be an opportunity for every nation, since the official program embraces the most ambitious and diversified list of sports ever attempted.

TO BE UNDER MANAGEMENT OF BOB BLOCK

WILL PLAY AS SOUTH SIDE TEAM
IN THE CITY
LEAGUE

FITZHARRIS, WHITLOCK AND SWANSON DOING THE PITCHING

Brainerd is to have a fast city ball club this year under the management of Bob Block.

The following men are on the roster: Norman, Schwindeman, Lepinski, Whitlock, Olson, Fitzharris, Hanson, Peterson, Uddenberg, Eason, Bedal, Nutting, Anderson, Stallman, Sheffo, Imgrund, Deggs, Beck, Tracy, Johnson and Swanson.

They will play as the South Side team in the City League, with Fitzharris, Whitlock and Swanson doing the pitching, using Olson for the heavier games on Sundays and holidays.

Olson tried out for the Minneapolis Association team this spring but, needing seasoning, was let go. He had two contracts to play ball with other league teams, but chose to come to Brainerd and play ball under Manager Block.

Brainerd is now scheduling games with some fast teams, opening up here May 20 against the strong Wadena team. Wadena business men are putting in a good team, hiring a battery and three other outside players.

Games will be played with all of the fast road teams, including the House of David, Chicago Giants, and the Kansas City All-Stars.

INTRODUCE HORSE SHOES IN B. H. S. INTERMURAL MEET

ENTRIES SHOULD BE TURNED IN TO COACHES MILLS AND KASCH

TROPHIES TO BE AWARDED WIN-
NER OF GIRLS' AND BOYS'
DIVISION IN TOURNEY

The ancient game of horse shoes first introduced into America with the blazing of the first trails and since discarded for backyard pastime comes back into existence again with its introduction in sports in the Brainerd high school by Coaches Mills and Warren J. Kasch.

The coaches have specified the game to be included in the intermural program this season and tournaments are to be staged for girls and boys divisions within the near future.

All entries are requested to be turned in immediately and it is hoped to have sufficient entries by Friday of this week to outline the schedule of games.

Trophies will be awarded the winner of the boys' and girls' divisions.

Standard horseshoes will be used with the boys twirling a 2 1/2 pound shoe and the girls a 1 1/2 pound shoe.

Rogers Hornsby—Doubled once in three times up and scored one run. Kiki Cuyler—Singled once in four times up.

SENATORS AND CUBS CAN'T GET GOING IN PLAY

NOW STAND NEXT TO LAST IN MAJOR LEAGUE STAND-
INGS

ERRORS, WEAK HITTING, POOR
PITCHING TELLS THE STORY

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent).
New York, May 2. — All is not serene in the camps of the Chicago Cubs and Washington Senators, two good ball clubs who can't seem to get going.

Next to last in the two major league standings today, the Cubs and Senators are hitting the trail that doesn't lead to the world series. Errors, weak hitting and poor pitching is the story.

The Senators have been tossing ball games away with reckless abandon and today were only a game and a half out of the cellar. After winning four out of the first five games, the Senators have dropped eight in a row.

An injured leg which has prevented Bucky Harris from playing regularly is one of the many reasons for the collapse of an apparently able ball club.

Insult was added to injury yesterday when Goose Goslin, who has been shouldering the biggest part of the Senators' offensive single-handed, was kept out of the game with a broken blood-vessel in his right arm, and Sammy West, young center fielder, crashed into the wall and had to leave the game with an injured back and leg.

The plight of the Cubs is not quite so bad. The failure of the highly-touted outfield to come through as expected and the inability of Charley Root to round into form has hindered the Cubs. Root has failed to win a game in four starts. Illness has prevented Hal Carlson from taking the mound and that, too, has set the Cubs back.

However, the Cubs have received unexpected pitching strength from Sheriff Blake, Percy Lee Jones and on one occasion Artie Nehf turned in a masterful game.

Hack Wilson's absence from the outfield with an injured ankle hasn't helped the Cubs get any runs either. Kiki Cuyler has been playing fine defensive baseball, but his hitting has been spotty and none too potent. Cuyler threw out two runners at third in yesterday's game with the Pirates, but made only one single in four times at bat off Carmen Hill.

Aurora Track Opening

Aurora, Ill.—Thousands of Chicagoans flocked to the Aurora track for the opening of the 1928 Illinois racing season. It was a record crowd for the inaugural day. Flora M., owned by John Grant of Chicago, won the feature handicap, finishing a head in front of Shasta Gold.
